

Two More Gave Their Lives To Jesus!

As I was passing the old computer system in the hallway by my front door, a voice called out my son's name, Duane, and I immediately knew, somehow, that the Lord wanted me to give Duane this computer that I was about to give away.

I called my son and told him that Jesus wanted me to give him our old computer. He was excited and said that he would come that evening for it. He also said that he was bringing his girlfriend's family with him to meet us. We planned with them to eat pepperoni pizza, their favorite, when we all got together.

Not having seen or heard from my son, Duane, in a long time prompted me to ask him if he was still a believer in Jesus Christ and he reassured me that he was. I knew that he was sealed with the Holy Spirit, when he gave his life to Jesus and was baptized when he was younger. It was important to me to ask those hard questions when one's daily living is so worldly.

As Duane's girlfriend's family was nearing our home, God put something unbelievable into my spirit. It was to offer the gift of Salvation by saying the sinner's prayer to this family who was coming to our house.

After greetings and introductions, we shared memories and plans for some of our lives. It was interesting to note that some visiting family members had googled my name and found that I had done some music recordings with Bob Marley at Tuff Gong Studios, which I usually keep to myself. I shared that if it was not for Jesus, I do not know where I would be.

Our discussion led me to share about demonic activities with the goal of destroying people's lives. I shared that my own family was dysfunctional: My father did not live at home from my middle school years; my mother was always angry and eventually kicked her young well-behaving children in the streets because she had to struggle so much as a single parent. Nevertheless, I still love mom and dad and was able to lead them to Jesus by praying the sinner's prayer with them. Now I know that I will be seeing them in heaven when I leave this world. What a joy!!

I asked Duane's girlfriend's family if they would like for Jesus to come into them and be the Lord and Savior of their lives. If you give your life to Jesus, you will be able to see other believing family members in heaven, when you get there.

Two young men in the girlfriend's family were willing and I was overwhelmed with joy. We said the sinner's prayer, with them repeating after me, with much enthusiasm and joy! I knew then that the Lord wanted their hearts at this point in their lives and led them, through Jesus in me, into the family of believers. This was too wonderful for me! We hugged the young men and plan to nurture and encourage their faith growth.

To help with their faith growth we encourage them to join a church, read the Bible, be around Christian people who can help them grow, and evangelize others in the world. Thank you Jesus for these two precious souls that were added to the body of Christ!
